'I met Betty when she was 17 and I was 24. We were both studying at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. I was on my own in New York with meager funds. That winter, Betty saw me shivering in my thin overcoat. She didn't say anything, but she talked her uncle into giving me one of his two thick coats. I wore it for three years. That sort of unassuming kindness was one of her most endearing characteristics. When I had the honor of presenting Betty with her honorary Oscar in 2009, I told the audience: "People said Bacall was 'tough.' She's a pussycat with a heart of gold."

After World War II ended, I was honorably discharged from the Navy. Back in New York, I continued the frustrating task of looking for a job, hopefully in a play that would last more than a few performances. I had a wife and two children to support. I succeeded in getting the lead in The Wind is Ninety, and I got good notices.

Shortly after the play opened, Betty attended a cocktail party for the famous producer Hal Wallis, who was going to New York the next day. Betty was always a girl who spoke her mind. She said, "Hal, when you are in New York, you must see The Wind Is Ninety. My friend Kirk Douglas is in it and has gotten rave reviews." He actually listened to her — did I mention she was persuasive? and soon after I was on my way to Hollywood with a meaty role as Barbara Stanwyck's husband in The Strange Love of Martha Ivers.

Over the years, Betty and I never lost touch. We even starred together in a film (1980's Young Man with a Horn) before she went back to New York to achieve the Broadway success I had always longed for. We tried to see each other whenever we were on each other's home coast, and we shared many special occasions in each other's lives, including my 50th wedding anniversary celebration in 2004.

It's hard to lose a friend, especially one with whom you have shared your dreams and your journey. In the case of Betty Bacall, I also lost my lucky charm – the girl who believed in me enough to talk Hal Wallis in to giving me a Hollywood career. That was my first lesson in helping others without looking for thanks. I will continue to think about her whenever I put it into practice.'

Kirk Douglas

A version of this story appeared in the August 29 issue of The Hollywood Reporter.

Lauren Bacall and Kirk Douglas in Man Without a Horn, 1950 Sunset Boulevard/Corbis -iii

'Lauren Bacall defined what it means to be a great actress, but she was also a great friend. When my father was filming The African Queen in the Belgian Congo, Lauren, who was now married to Bogie, went along to Africa to help cook for the crew and keep up the collective morale. My mother was heavily pregnant and stayed behind in Los Angeles. At some point during the course of filming, a barefoot runner came bounding through the jungle bearing a telegram, which he handed to my father. Dad accepted the envelope, opened it, smiled and put it away in his pocket, when Lauren blurted out, "For god sakes, John, tell us what it says." Dad smiled, "It's a girl," he said. "Her name is Anjelica." I guess you could say that Lauren Bacall was one of the first people to know me.

I hold her in my heart as a teacher, a mother and a friend. Lauren was devoted and loyal not only to my father, but also to my husband, Robert Graham. Her support of and interest in Robert's work gave both of them great pleasure throughout the years. She adored him, and he was crazy about her. Lauren Bacall's collection speaks for itself.'

'I first met Lauren Bacall in 1964 on the opening night of "Funny Girl." I was dazzled by her style and beauty.. and that voice. It was an impression constantly reconfirmed as I watched her and enjoyed her work over the years, her originality and class evident in how she conducted her career and her life. It was, finally, my great privilege to have directed her in "The Mirror Has Two Faces" for which she won the Golden Globe as Best Supporting Actress and was nominated for the Academy Award in that category. Her innate aesthetic taste was evident in everything she did and in what and whom she treasured.'

Barbra Streisand

'The Lauren Bacall Collection is fascinating and unique in many ways. The wonderful diversity of collecting categories- furniture, contemporary art, faience, African works of art, symbolist art, majolica, American art, European pewter and brass may at first glance appear a random assemblage of items, but in fact were deliberately collected by a discerning eye to create a warm and relaxed country environment.

I first met Lauren Bacall roughly five years ago. Her daughter, Leslie Bogart, had contacted Morisa Rosenberg in the Bonhams Los Angeles office, mentioning that her mother wished to place some items at auction, and asked if there was a specific contact in New York- I was nominated. What would happen next would prove to be a welcome routine for years to come.

Our visits would take place every few weeks. I would arrive and be seated in the Library, where Ms. Bacall (and Sophie, her Papillon) would join me. We would speak for a while, going over matters of the day, and would then embark on a walking tour of the vast apartment, reviewing various pieces she might wish to auction.

Her affection for her collections was obvious. I noticed as we walked, that she actually ran her hand over particular pieces of furniture and sculpture. I asked her about this and she said that she couldn't help herselfthe tactile nature of decorative arts and sculpture drew her in. For years we would have discussions of aesthetics, form and function, and the creative force behind a work of art, regardless of medium. Lauren Bacall collected artwork, furniture, and decorative arts that, above all, spoke to her, and in her own words, "possessed character and honesty".

As our relationship deepened, our visits lengthened- the longest visit would last seven hours. The topics of conversation also deepened. Not only did we speak of art and antiques, but we also came to share discussions of music, literature, politics, family, relationships, and those no longer with us.

Lauren Bacall was well-versed in many topics- I have rarely met anyone with such breadth of knowledge, so present in the world, firm in her convictions, and yet willing to listen to divergent opinions (listen, yes, agree, no). She did not dwell in the past, although she was willing to share memories when asked.

What struck me most over the years was that this collection was an extremely personal collection and truly reflected Lauren Bacall's formidable collecting sense and uniquely intuitive style.'

'As anyone can see on entering my apartment, I am a collector of many things, for many years: pewter (plates, bowls, mugs, you name it), brass snuff boxes, match strikers, faience animals, needlepoint animals, ivory animals, bronze animals, boxes; all are antiques, all have lived through a lot, all make me feel warm. The place is cluttered, but it is personal, and in each room as you wander down the hall there is something else. (There are lots of books, too, with one on Henry Moore in each room.) Also pictures of my friends, my friends and my children, all important to me, and my dog; I am attached to it all.'

Lauren Bacall and Robert Graham

Whenever Lauren Bacall was in Los Angeles, she always called Bob, and visited his studio. She was keenly interested in his work, and often purchased works for her collection. She was always fun to be with, very outspoken and opinionated, but also very decisive. She also joined him at the dedication ceremonies of Bob's public monuments, including the Duke Ellington Memorial in New York City, the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Memorial dedication in Washington DC, as well as for the Great Bronze Doors of the Cathedral of Our Lady of the Angels in Los Angeles. She adored Bob, and I have many wonderful memories of them together.

Robert Graham was born in Mexico City on Aug. 19, 1938. His father died when he was six; he was raised by his grandmother Ana, his aunt Mercedes and his mother. At age 11, Graham and his three "mothers" moved to San Jose and later attended San Jose State University and the San Francisco Art Institute. He lived in London for a few years with his first wife, Joey, and their son, Steven, moving to Los Angeles in the early 1970s. In 1990, long after his first marriage had ended, Graham met his second wife, actress Anjelica Huston, at a dinner party. They soon became a couple and were married in 1992. On Dec. 15, 2008, Graham was inducted into the California Hall of Fame.

In Los Angeles, Graham designed a set of free-standing bronze doors for the Music Center in 1978 and a sculpture of two headless figures known as the Olympic Gateway at the Memorial Coliseum for the 1984 Olympics. His largest and most prominent public work in the city is the Great Bronze Doors, a monumental entryway topped by an angel, created for the Cathedral of Our Lady of the Angels in 2002.

Graham also created a memorial to Joe Louis in Detroit, a monument to Duke Ellington in New York and a sculptural remembrance of Charlie "Bird" Parker in Kansas City, Missouri. But among his tributes to beloved public figures, his proudest achievement was probably the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Memorial in Washington, D.C. The complex commission, executed in 1997, includes a life-size figure of the president in his wheelchair, a bas-relief depicting a newsreel of his first inauguration and a series of panels illustrating 54 programs initiated by FDR under the New Deal.

His work was shown in many galleries and museums, including Ace Gallery in Beverly Hills, Imago Galleries in Palm Desert and Gagosian Gallery in New York. His work is in the collections of such institutions as the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, Dallas Museum of Fine Art, Detroit Institute of Arts and the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden in Washington, D.C.

The artist Ed Moses commented upon his passing:

"He was just one of those impeccable human beings that I love greatly and all of his friends did, too. He will make a mark historically as a sculptor...the museums don't understand this yet, but they will. He was an independent, and never played according to the rules. He did it the way he wanted, and he didn't play ball with museums or dealers. He was a real independent force and a powerful force."

Hungarian illustrator, Marcel Vertes was born in Ujpest, near Budapest, He came to Paris during World War I, and established himself as one of the most important artistic figures of the 1920s, following the footsteps of Toulouse-Lautrec and Forain. His work consisted mainly of portraits, scenes of Parisian street life, women, the circus, and cabaret acts.

With the onset of World War II, Vertes came to New York, working briefly for Vanity Fair and Harper's Bazaar in New York before traveling to London to illustrate for Schiaparelli.

Vertes painted the murals of Cafe Carlyle in New York. He did advertisements for Perry Water, Arpege, Scandal Perfume, and the label for the 1951 Chateau Mouton Rothschild. Vertes worked as a costume designer for the Hollywood productions of The Thief of Baghdad, (1940); Lydia, (1941); and Tonight and Every Night, (1945). In 1952, his fashion designs for John Huston's Moulin Rouge won him two Academy Awards. In 1959, he was hired to design advertising for Good Bye Charlie, starring Lauren Bacall. After ten years in America, Vertes returned to Paris where he remained until his death in 1961.

"Another beginning as a model for Harper's Bazaar with Vertes. A treasured momento, always makes me smile (referring to lot 63). He was a funny and charming man." Lauren Bacall, as quoted in French Vogue, December, 1978

Brooklyn, New York, Brooklyn Museum, 1971

The son of a Polish immigrant, Shikler was born in Brooklyn, and as a teenager decided to declare painting is profession. Admitted to the first class ever to attend Manhattan's selective High School of Music and Art, he later won a scholarship to Temple University's Tyler School of Fine Arts. After serving in Europe in World War II as a map-maker, Pfc. Shikler returned to Tyler for two degrees, then studied in New York for three years with noted Abstract Expressionist Hans Hofmann. By the early '50s Shikler had realized he was not an Abstract Expressionist at heart, but rather a representational artist.

Among the public figures who have sat, or stood, as his subjects are Jane Engelhard, Lady Bird Johnson (for the LBJ library in Austin), Jacqueline Kennedy, the official White House portrait of John F. Kennedy, painted posthumously, Lauren Bacall and children, the Duchess of Windsor, Ronald Reagan, heart surgeon Michael DeBakey (for Houston's Baylor College of Medicine), CBS President William Paley, Jordan's Queen Noor and singer Diana Ross and her three children.

Born in Brooklyn, Levine later studied painting at Pratt Institute, at Temple University's Tyler School of Art in Philadelphia in 1946, and with Hans Hofmann. After his service in the Army, he graduated from Temple with a degree in education and completed his studies at its Tyler School.

Levine's paintings are mostly watercolors that often depict garment workers, and bathers at Coney Island. The paintings are sympathetic portraits of ordinary citizens, and distinctive seaside architecture, panoramas with people on the beach.

Levine, together with Aaron Shikler founded the Painting Group in 1958, a salon of artists with whom he gathered for fifty years to paint models.

Working at Esquire in the early 1960s, he developed his skills as a political illustrator. In 1963, he drew more than 3,800 pen-and-ink caricatures of famous writers, artists and politicians for the publication. Only about half of Levine's caricatures were created for the Review. Other work has appeared in Esquire (over 1,000 drawings), The New York Times, The Washington Post, Rolling Stone Magazine, Sports Illustrated, New York Magazine, Time, Newsweek, The New Yorker, The Nation, Playboy, and others.

In his autobiography, True Compass, Edward Kennedy discusses the origin of this lithograph:

As a wedding gift to my bride, I did an oil painting of daffodils. The two of us had been reading William Wordsworth's poem "Daffodils" together several weeks earlier, and it was one of the readings we chose for our wedding. The poem begins, "I wander'd lonely as a cloud / That floats on high o'er vales and hills / When all at once I saw a crowd, / A host, of golden daffodils." The wildflowers lift the poet's spirits, and charm him by the way they seem to dance in the wind in a long line beside a bay. When later he lies in solitude on his couch, the image of the flowers returns to him: "And then my heart with pleasure fills / And dances with the daffodils."

Edward M. Kennedy, True Compass, Twelve Books, 2009.

The following year, Edward Kennedy produced a lithograph of the painting, in an edition of 100.

Sir Noël Peirce Coward (1899-1973) was a celebrated English playwright, composer, director, actor and singer known for his wit, poise and unique sense of style. Coward achieved tremendous success as a playwright, publishing more than 50 plays during his lengthy career. Many of his works, such as Hay Fever, Private Lives, Design for Living, Present Laughter and Blithe Spirit have remained in the regular theatre repertoire. He also composed hundreds of songs, in addition to well over a dozen musical theatre works, poetry, short stories, the novel Pomp and Circumstance, and a three-volume autobiography. Coward's stage and film acting and directing career spanned six decades, during which he starred in many of his own works.

Lauren Bacall appeared in a television production of his work Blithe Spirit, in which Coward also starred as did Claudette Colbert. She also starred with Rosemary Harris in the 1999 Broadway revival of Coward's Waiting in the Wings at the Walter Kerr Theatre.

Firefly Estate, Noel Coward's mountain-top vacation home located near Oracabessa, Jamaica, is now a government-sponsored museum dedicated to the English author, and is listed as a National Heritage Site by the Jamaica National Heritage Trust.

"Outside that window lies Central Park; my relief from the city, an important reason to live there."

'Musing about my career in the theater, I wondered if I would ever have a high onstage again, one even close to the high of Applause. I knew there could never be a repeat of that feeling, because that was my first musical; the first anything is always unforgettable. I would never forget how I felt in Applause. I reveled in the response that came to me from those audiences. I yearned to have that feeling again. Who wouldn't want to recapture that rush of warmth and affection wafting over the orchestra pit and footlights and hitting you right between the eyes from your first appearance onstage through the final curtain call? Yes, it was approval, that sense of being wanted, of having finally accomplished at least some of what you set out to accomplish when you made that first childish, romantic decision to become an actress."

'I have spent a good deal of time trying to figure friendship out, without much luck. Why one friendship survives whether people see each other or not, why another fades for no apparent reason. Why sometimes old friends are easy to talk to about everything and then impossible to talk to about anything.

Years ago, John Huston said that what matters most in any relationship-certainly in friendship-is interest. Those special friends whom I am closest to do just that. They interest me: how they think, what they feel, how they deal with life-its gifts and its denials. They add to and complete the circle of my life and enrich me. They are what I hang on to.'

On set on the first day of filming On Golden Pond, Katherine Hepburn presented her co-star, Henry Fonda, with a brown Fedora. The Fedora had special meaning as it had been Spencer Tracy's "lucky' hat. Fonda, a talented painter, rendered the three hats that he had worn throughout the film in watercolor. He presented Katherine Hepburn with the original watercolor, and subsequently produced an edition of 200 lithographs of the painting. He signed, numbered and presented a lithograph to each person who had worked on the film.

After Fonda's passing, Hepburn presented the original watercolor to Ernest Thompson, the author and creator of the play, On Golden Pond.

Lauren Bacall, early 1940s Transcendental Graphics/Getty Images

Lauren Bacall and Henry Moore

Lauren Bacall first became interested in Henry Moore in Los Angeles in the 1950s. After visiting the Forte de Belvedere exhibition in Florence in 1972, Ms Bacall studied many of the sculptures and continued her fervent interest in his work. In 1975 Robert Lewin of the Brook Street Gallery introduced her to the sculptor. As Ms Bacall recalled:

'The operator said Henry Moore was on the phone. I could not believe it. I said 'Is that really Henry Moore?' and he said, 'Is this really Lauren Bacall?' I felt twelve years old, I was so excited' (letter from Lauren Bacall to Roger Berthoud, 17 August 1984, quoted in R. Berthoud, The Life of Henry Moore, New York, 1987, p. 389).

Ms. Bacall subsequently visited Moore at Hoglands, during her time in London, often accompanied by her children. Anxious not to take advantage of their friendship the sculptures and lithographs she collected all came directly from the artist's studio after careful consideration. In a letter dated 23 June 1976 preserved in the Henry Moore Archive, Ms Bacall writes to the sculptor: 'There is no way possible to articulate my feelings after my visit to Much Hadham. It was and will be ever a high point of my life ... [it was the] realization of my dream – to actually meet you and then spend time with you. ... Some say it's dangerous to meet one's idols – but in your case, and this is true, you went far beyond expectation.'

'imagine my shock when I realized, at the tender age of sixty-five, that with all of the above, the final truth is this: I live alone. I need a reason for all that I do, not just to fill my days but to unleash my energy, to make me feel warm, that I matter, to satisfy my emotions. When I travel, which is often, who do I buy things for? My children. To whom do I send postcards? My children. Who do I call? My children. They are my connection. My connection with yesterday, today, and tomorrow. I need them. The truth is out: I depend on them so much more than I told myself I ever would. I can be away from them physically for a while, but I have to talk to them. To know what they're doing, how they are. I am my mother's daughter.' Excerpt From: Lauren Bacall. "Now." P. 83-84

"...the idea for the best-selling item of my collection sprang from a void in a Moore sculpture, a big one. No one else saw a heart there. Just Me. The shape was there in the metal."

Elsa Peretti (as quoted in Bejeweled 1837-1987, Tiffany & Co., 1987, p. 293, (the Tiffany & Co. promotional biography of Elsa Peretti).

The clean, fluid, organic lines that define the sensuous jewelry and objects that Italian designer and craftswoman Elsa Peretti creates coincide with the space and form in the sculpture of Henry Moore. Lot 722, the lacquered open-heart pendant necklace by Peretti for Tiffany & Company, was an example of Moore's influence on Peretti. Lauren Bacall appreciated Peretti's artistic sensibility; both trailblazers, ahead of their time, they embodied the free spirited and no-nonsense modern woman.

'We talked about color and beauty and most of all, with her encouragement, she deepened my confidence and commitment to holding true with what I thought was beautiful. Betty understood the inside of an artist - our nature and the courage you must have to succeed - to hold tight the mast of your craft no matter what others may think.'

Amy Moss

Goldsmith, artist, craftswoman, Amy Moss was introduced to Lauren Bacall by her daughter, Leslie Bogart. After receiving her education and training at The Jewelry Arts Institute in New York, the Gemological Institute of America and the Jewelry & Design Studio, Amy Moss came to serve her private clientele in 1987. More than just a patron, Bacall and Moss forged a close bond based on their mutual interest in sculpture, form, space and design. The jewels created by Amy Moss are predominantly in 22 karat yellow gold, heavy, simple, yet strong shapes that are punctuated with colorful gemstones. Upon receiving the rubellite ring which exemplifies these characteristics, Bacall wrote Moss a handwritten thank-you note calling the ring "A triumph." Bacall and Moss always met at the Beverly Hills Hotel, in the same bungalow. It would be winter and Bacall would be swimming laps while others would not dare to wear a swim suit. Moss remembers Bacall - strong voice, seductive presence, intelligent being, no make-up, exciting and always sharing an intimate professional experience. They worked together on many creations, not just for herself, but also for her children.

'Over the many years that I saw Betty, as her friends called her, I loved visiting her. The first time we met I was flustered as I a saw my childhood icon coming up the stairs to my Santa Monica apartment. She immediately put me at ease when we sat down at my dining room table and began looking through my jewels.'

Darlene de Sedle

Darlene de Sedle Vare's jewelry draws inspiration from her childhood. Growing up in New York, she was exposed to antiquities through her family business. Her jewelry reflects this strong influence and is expressed in high karat yellow gold designs and cabochon gemstones where she re-interprets ancient themes in her contemporary works. In fact, de Selde Vare's maker's mark is the Winged Sun, most often associated with the ancient Egyptian symbol for divinity, royalty and power. Bacall and De Sedle had a common history of growing up in New York and living in California. Both exhibited interest in ancient cultures and were attracted to color. They shared a connection of understated tactile jewelry set with smooth rounded colorful cabochons and rose-cut diamonds, as opposed to flashy jewelry. Bacall preferred to wear multiple rings and stacked bracelets as a statement.

'[Lauren Bacall] was a strong woman and she knew her own truth. She was so easy to work with and we shared our inspirations. It was enormous fun designing for her. I shall miss her because as a woman, she was unique.' Elizabeth Gage

In 1968, award-winning goldsmith Elizabeth Gage received her first major commission from the esteemed house of Cartier. For more than fifty years, Gage has been providing jewelry to her international clientele from her studio in London. Gage is recognized for her attention to detail, and her imaginative use of color and gemstones. She continues to create textures on her works of art with granulation, wirework, satin, hammered and repoussé finishes, and highly engraved enamel work. Gage is a Freeman of the City of London and a Liveryman of the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths.

Lauren Bacall purchased her first piece from Elizabeth Gage in 1985. Over the next two decades, their relationship flourished. In 1990, Bacall commissioned Gage to create Lot 734, the Mogul inspired camel brooch, which became one of Bacall's favorite pieces. The inception of the brooch was initiated by Bacall when she presented Gage with the camel and asked for it to be incorporated into a jewel. Drawing from her love of gardens, history and architecture, Gage created this unique brooch set with a jeweled camel standing on a colorful and elaborate foliate enamel pedestal enhanced with diamonds and pearl.

Jean Schlumberger as quoted in Bejeweled 1837-1987, Tiffany & Co., 1987, p. 274.

Over the years, Lauren Bacall came to know Jean Schlumberger. She shared an appreciation for his ingenuity and unique designs, acquiring several pieces from him in Paris. Bacall's selection of Schlumberger jewelry includes pieces that present unusual color combinations, nautical and marine motifs, and brilliant enamel. These basic elements characterize the bejeweled creations of her friend and admirer, Frenchborn Jean Schlumberger. Each is artfully designed and beautifully crafted. In particular, Lauren Bacall favored her Schlumberger rope twist bracelets, lots 735 and 736, which she wore together in real life as well as on screen.

No lot may be transferred. Any person placing a bid as agent on behalf of another (whether or not such person has disclosed that fact or the identity of the principal may be jointly and severally liable with the principal under any contract resulting from the acceptance of a bid.

If all fees, commissions, premiums, bid price and other sums due to us from the purchaser are not paid promptly as provided in these Conditions of Sale, we reserve the right to impose a finance charge equal to 1.5% per month on all amounts due to us beginning on the 31st day following the sale until payment is received, in addition to other remedies available to us by law.

3. We reserve the right to withdraw any property and to divide and combine lots at any time before such property's auction. Unless otherwise announced by the auctioneer at the time of sale, all bids are per lot as numbered in the catalog and no lots shall be divided or combined for sale.

4. We reserve the right to reject a bid from any bidder, to split any bidding increment, and to advance the bidding in any manner the auctioneer may decide. In the event of any dispute between bidders, or in the event the auctioneer doubts the validity of any bid, the auctioneer shall have sole and final discretion either to determine the successful bidder or to re-offer and resell the article in dispute. If any dispute arises after the sale, our sales records shall be conclusive in all respects.

5. If we are prevented by fire, theft or any other reason whatsoever from delivering any property to the purchaser or a sale otherwise cannot be completed, our liability shall be limited to the sum actually paid therefor by the purchaser and shall in no event include any compensatory, incidental or consequential damages.

6. If a lot is offered subject to a reserve, we may implement such reserve by bidding on behalf of the consignor, whether by opening bidding or continuing bidding in response to other bidders until reaching the reserve. If we have an interest in an offered lot and the proceeds thereform other than our commissions, we may bid therefor to protect such interest. CONSIGNORS ARE NOT ALLOWED TO BID ON THEIR OWN ITEMS.

No waiver, amendment or modification of the terms hereof (other than posted notices or oral announcements during the sale) shall bind us unless specifically stated in writing and signed by us. If any part of these Conditions of Sale is for any reason invalid or unenforceable, the rest shall remain valid and enforceable.

11. These Conditions of Sale and the purchaser's and our respective rights and obligations hereunder are governed by the laws of the State of California. By bidding at an auction, each purchaser and bidder agrees to be bound by these Conditions of Sale. LIMITED RIGHT OF RESCISSION

If within one (1) year from the date of sale, the original purchaser (a) gives written notice to us alleging that the identification of Authorship (as defined below) of such lot as set forth in the BOLD TYPE heading of the catalog description of such lot (as amended by any saleroom notices or verbal announcements during the sale) is not substantially correct based on a fair reading of the catalog (including the terms of any glossary contained therein), and (b) within 10 days after such notice returns the lot to us in the same condition as at the time of sale, and (c) establishes the allegation in the notice to our satisfaction (including by providing one or more written opinions by recognized experts in the field, as we may reasonably require), then the sale of such lot will be rescinded and, unless we have already paid to the consignor monies owed him in connection with the sale, the original purchase price will be refunded.

If, prior to receiving such notice from the original purchaser alleging such defect, we have paid the consignor monies owed him in connection with the sale, we shall pay the original purchaser the amount of our commissions, any other sale proceeds to which we are entitled and applicable taxes received from the purchaser on the sale and make demand on the consignor to pay the balance of the original purchase price to the original purchaser. Should the consignor fail to pay such amount promptly, we may disclose the identity of the consignor and assign to the original purchaser our rights against the consignor with respect to the lot the sale of which is sought to be rescinded. Upon such disclosure and assignment, any liability of Bonhams as consignor's agent with respect to said lot shall automatically terminate.

The foregoing limited right of rescission is available to the original purchaser only and may not be assigned to or relied upon by any subsequent transferee of the property sold. The purchaser hereby accepts the benefit of the consignor's warranty of title and other representations and warranties made by the consignor for the purchaser's benefit. Nothing in this section shall be construed as an admission by us of any representation of fact, express or implied, obligation or responsibility with respect to any lot. THE PURCHASER'S SOLE AND EXCLUSIVE REMEDY AGAINST BONHAMS FOR ANY REASON WHATSOEVER IS THE LIMITED RIGHT OF RESCISSION DESCRIBED IN THIS SECTION.

"Authorship" means only the identity of the creator, the period, culture and source or origin of the lot, as the case may be, as set forth in the BOLD TYPE heading of the print catalog entry. The right of rescission does not extend to: (a) works of art executed before 1870 (unless these works are determined to be counterfeits created since 1870), as this is a matter of current scholarly opinion which can change; (b) titles, descriptions, or other identification of offered lots, which information normally appears in lower case type below the BOLD TYPE heading identifying the Authorship; (c) Authorship of any lot where it was specifically mentioned that there exists a conflict of specialist or scholarly opinion regarding the Authorship of the lot at the time of sale; (d) Authorship of any lot which as of the date of sale was in accordance with the then generally-accepted opinion of scholars and specialists regarding the same; or (e) the identification of periods or dates of creation in catalog descriptions which may be proven inaccurate by means of scientific processes that are not generally accepted for use until after publication of the catalog in which the property is offered or that were unreasonably expensive or impractical to use at the time of such publication.

LIMITATION OF LIABILITY

EXCEPT AS EXPRESSLY PROVIDED ABOVE, ALL PROPERTY IS SOLD "AS IS." NEITHER BONHAMS NOR THE CONSIGNOR MAKES ANY REPRESENTATION OR WARRANTY, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, AS TO THE MERCHANTABILITY, FITNESS OR CONDITION OF THE PROPERTY OR AS TO THE CORRECTNESS OF DESCRIPTION. GENUINENESS. ATTRIBUTION. PROVENANCE OR PERIOD OF THE PROPERTY OR AS TO WHETHER THE PURCHASER ACQUIRES ANY COPYRIGHTS OR OTHER INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS IN LOTS SOLD OR AS TO WHETHER A WORK OF ART IS SUBJECT TO THE ARTIST'S MORAL RIGHTS OR OTHER RESIDUAL RIGHTS OF THE ARTIST. THE PURCHASER EXPRESSIY ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IN NO EVENT SHALL BONHAMS BE LIABLE FOR ANY DAMAGES INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, ANY COMPENSATORY, INCIDENTAL OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES.

Our regional offices and representatives throughout the US are available to service all of your needs. Should you have any further questions, please visit our website at www.bonhams.com/us for more information or call our Client Services Department at +1 (800) 223 2854

AUCTION ESTIMATES

The first step in the auction process is to determine the auction value of your property. Bonhams' world-renowned specialists will evaluate your special items at no charge and in complete confidence. You can obtain an auction estimate in many ways:

- Attend one of our Auction Appraisal Events held regularly at our galleries and in other major metropolitan areas. The updated schedule for Bonhams Auction Appraisal Events is available at www.bonhams.com/us.
- Call our Client Services Department to schedule a private appointment at one of our galleries. If you have a large collection, our specialists can travel, by appointment, to evaluate your property on site.
- Send clear photographs to us of each individual item, including item dimensions and other pertinent information with each picture.
 Photos should be sent to Bonhams' address in envelopes marked as "photo auction estimate". Alternatively, you can submit your request using our online form at www.bonhams.com/us. Digital images may be attached to the form. Please limit your images to no more than five (5) per item.

CONSIGNING YOUR PROPERTY

After you receive an estimate, you may consign your property to us for sale in the next appropriate auction. Our staff assists you throughout the process, arranging transportation of your items to our galleries (at the consignor's expense), providing a detailed inventory of your consignment, and reporting the prices realized for each lot. We provide secure storage for your property in our warehouses and all items are insured throughout the auction process. You will receive payment for your property approximately 35 days after completion of sale.

Sales commissions vary with the potential auction value of the property and the particular auction in which the property is offered. Please call us for commission rates.

PROFESSIONAL APPRAISAL SERVICES

Bonhams' specialists conduct insurance and fair market value appraisals for private collectors, corporations, museums, fiduciaries and government entities on a daily basis. Insurance appraisals, used for insurance purposes, reflect the cost of replacing property in today's retail market. Fair market value appraisals are used for estate, tax and family division purposes and reflect prices paid by a willing buyer to a willing seller.

When we conduct a private appraisal, our specialists will prepare a thorough inventory listing of all your appraised property by category. Valuations, complete descriptions and locations of items are included in the documentation.

Appraisal fees vary according to the nature of the collection, the amount of work involved, the travel distance, and whether the property is subsequently consigned for auction.

Our appraisers are available to help you anywhere and at any time. Please call our Client Services Department to schedule an appraisal.

ESTATE SERVICES

Since 1865, Bonhams has been serving the needs of fiduciaries – lawyers, trust officers, accountants and executors – in the disposition of large and small estates. Our services are specially designed to aid in the efficient appraisal and disposition of fine art, antiques, jewelry, and collectibles. We offer a full range of estate services, ranging from flexible financial terms to tailored accounting for heirs and their agents to world-class marketing and sales support.

BUYER'S GUIDE

BIDDING & BUYING AT AUCTION

Whether you are an experienced bidder or an enthusiastic novice, auctions provide a stimulating atmosphere unlike any other. Bonhams previews and sales are free and open to the public. As you will find in these directions, bidding and buying at auction is easy and exciting. Should you have any further questions, please visit our website at www. bonhams.com or call our Client Services Department at +1 (800) 223 2854

Catalogs

Before each auction we publish illustrated catalogs. Our catalogs provide descriptions and estimated values for each "lot." A lot may refer to a single item or to a group of items auctioned together. The catalogs also include the dates and the times for the previews and auctions. We offer our catalogs by subscription or by single copy. For information on subscribing to our catalogs, you may refer to the subscription form in this catalog, call our Client Services Department, or visit our website at www.bonhams.com/us.

Previews

Auction previews are your chance to inspect each lot prior to the auction. We encourage you to look closely and examine each object on which you may want to bid so that you will know as much as possible about it. Except as expressly set forth in the Conditions of Sale, items are sold "as is" and with all faults; illustrations in our catalogs, website and other materials are provided for identification only. At the previews, our staff is always available to answer your questions and guide you through the auction process. Condition reports may be available upon request.

Estimates

Bonhams catalogs include low and high value estimates for each lot, exclusive of the buyer's premium and tax. The estimates are provided as an approximate guide to current market value based primarily on previous auction results for comparable pieces, and should not be interpreted as a representation or prediction of actual selling prices. They are determined well in advance of a sale and are subject to revision. Please contact us should you have any questions about value estimates.

Reserves

Unless indicated by the symbol next to the lot number, which denotes no reserve, all lots in the catalog are subject to a reserve. The reserve is the minimum auction price that the consignor is willing to accept for a lot. This amount is confidential and does not exceed the low estimate value.

Auction House's Interest in Property Offered at Auction

On occasion, Bonhams may offer a lot in which it has an ownership interest, in whole or in part. Such property, if any, is identified in the catalog with a \blacktriangle symbol next to the lot number.

Similarly, Bonhams may have an economic interest in a lot beyond its commission as a result of making an advance against anticipated proceeds to the consignor which is secured by the consigned property or where it has guaranteed the consignor a minimum auction price for consigned property. Such property, if any, is identified in the catalog with a \circ symbol next to the lot number.

Bidding at Auction

At Bonhams, you can bid in many ways: in person, via absentee bid, over the phone, or via Bonhams' live online bidding facility. Absentee bids can be submitted in person, online, via fax or via email.

Valid Bonhams client accounts are required to participate in bidding activity. You can obtain registration information online, at the reception desk or by calling our Client Services Department.

By bidding at auction, whether in person or by agent, by absentee bid, telephone, online or other means, the buyer or bidder agrees to be bound by the Conditions of Sale. Lots are auctioned in consecutive numerical order as they appear in the catalog. Bidding normally begins below the low estimate. The auctioneer will accept bids from interested parties present in the saleroom, from telephone bidders, and from absentee bidders who have left written bids in advance of the sale. The auctioneer may also execute bids on behalf of the consignor by placing responsive or consecutive bids for a lot up to the amount of the reserve, but never above it.

We assume no responsibility for failure to execute bids for any reason whatsoever.

In Person

If you are planning to bid at auction for the first time, you will need to register at the reception desk in order to receive a numbered bid card. To place a bid, hold up your card so that the auctioneer can clearly see it. Decide on the maximum auction price that you wish to pay, exclusive of buyer's premium and tax, and continue bidding until your bid prevails or you reach your limit. If you are the successful bidder on a lot, the auctioneer will acknowledge your paddle number and bid amount.

Absentee Bids

As a service to those wishing to place bids, we may at our discretion accept bids without charge in advance of auction online or in writing on bidding forms available from us. "Buy" bids will not be accepted; all bids must state the highest bid price the bidder is willing to pay. Our auction staff will try to bid just as you would, with the goal of obtaining the item at the lowest bid price possible. In the event identical bids are submitted, the earliest bid submitted will take precedence. Absentee bids shall be executed in competition with other absentee bids, any applicable reserve, and bids from other auction participants. A friend or agent may place bids on your behalf, provided that we have received your written authorization prior to the sale. Absentee bid forms are available in our catalogs, online at www.bonhams.com/ us, at offsite auction locations, and at our San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York galleries.

By Telephone

Under special circumstances, we can arrange for you to bid by telephone. To arrange for a telephone bid, please contact our Client Services Department a minimum of 24 hours prior to the sale.

Online

We offer live online bidding for most auctions and accept absentee bids online for all our auctions. Please visit www. bonhams.com/us for details.

The auctioneer may split or reject any bid at any time at his or her discretion as outlined in the Conditions of Sale.

Currency Converter

Solely for the convenience of bidders, a currency converter may be provided at Bonhams' auctions. The rates quoted for conversion of other currencies to U.S. Dollars are indications only and should not be relied upon by a bidder, and neither Bonhams nor its agents shall be responsible for any errors or omissions in the operation or accuracy of the currency converter.

Buyer's Premium

A buyer's premium is added to the winning bid price of each individual lot purchased, at the rates set forth in the Conditions of Sale. The winning bid price plus the premium constitute the purchase price for the lot. Applicable sales taxes are computed based on this figure, and the total becomes your final purchase price.

Unless specifically illustrated and noted, fine art frames are not included in the estimate or purchase price. Bonhams accepts no liability for damage or loss to frames during storage or shipment.

All sales are final and subject to the Conditions of Sale found in our catalogs, on our website, and available at the reception desk.

Payment

All buyers are asked to pay and pick up by 3pm on the business day following the auction. Payment may be made to Bonhams by cash, checks drawn on a U.S. bank, money order, wire transfer, or by Visa, MasterCard, American Express or Discover credit or charge card or debit card. All items must be paid for within 5 business days of the sale. Please note that payment by personal or business check may result in property not being released until purchase funds clear our bank. For payments sent by mail, please remit to Cashier Department, 220 San Bruno Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94103.

Sales Tax

California, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Nevada, New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Texas, Washington state and Washington DC residents must pay applicable sales tax.
